CONCEPT NOTE
The Indian region demographically referred to as the "northeast" term North East India comprises of eight states. Although these states are often called as "North-East India", each of these states has different cultures, tribes, ethnic groups, myths and legends. However, these states have some shared issues and common grounds often dealt by the writers of this region. The term transculturalism acknowledges cultural differences but fails to acknowledge emerging interactions among different cultural and ethnic groups. Transcultural, on the other hand, refers to a dynamic cultural interaction focusing primarily on the mutual exchange of ideas and cultural norms among diverse ethnic groups. Translation is a process through which people living in a multicultural society like the one we have in North East can learn from one another and grow together. Translation also leads to meeting one's identity in relation to the other. The webinar is an attempt to discuss the nuances associated with transculturalism, translation and identity with special reference to the North Eastern region of India. Join the National webinar and our esteemed panes in this endeavor.
