COURSE 2: EUROPEAN CLASSICAL LITERATURE
(CORE)
CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: European Classical literature implies the literature of ancient Greece and Rome. The study of ‘ancient Greek literature’ implies a study of literature written in Greek in the pre Christian period, by non-Christians in the first six centuries of the Christian era. Roman literature, written in the Latin language, remains an enduring legacy of the culture of ancient Rome. Latin literature drew heavily on the traditions of other cultures, particularly the more matured literary tradition of Greece, and the strong influence of earlier Greek authors are readily apparent. The purpose of this course is to acquaint learners with the great heritage of European classical literature, starting from Homer’s epic The Iliad to the satires of Horace. The importance of this course rests on the fact that English literature is heavily indebted to the classical works of Greece and Rome. Whether it is tragedy or comedy, satire or criticism, epic or lyric, the influence of classical literature in the works of the English authors is clearly in evidence. Therefore, learners will be acquainted with immortal classics like The Iliad and Metamorphosis, get to know of the difference between the Greek classics and the Latin classics, the different genres dabbled in by the classical writers, such as, tragedy, comedy, epic, satire, criticism and so forth.

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Popular literature includes those writings intended for the masses and those that find favour with large audiences. It can be distinguished from artistic literature in that it is designed primarily to entertain (brittania.com). The objective of this course is to acquaint learners with popular literature, such as crime thriller, graphic fiction, children's literature and so forth, generally regarded by purists to be 'low-brow' and meant for easy mass consumption. However, it would be wrong to assume such a position insofar as the lines of distinction between what is literary and what is popular tends to be blurred.

COURSE CODE: 40100

COURSE 8: BRITISH LITERATURE: 18TH CENTURY
(CORE)

CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Continuing with Eighteenth-century literature, this course offers an array of texts across genres. The eighteenth-century was an age in which new modes of creative expression were coming to the fore, particular prose narratives of the likes of Swift and Sterne, among others. Irony and satire became important tools to depict society’s ills. The age was also characterised by importance given to gender issues. Congreve’s play bears enough testimony to this fact. Since, this period is also referred to as the Age of Enlightenment; ‘reason’ became the locus from which human’s actions and cognition issued forth. Therefore, a fundamental philosophical shift ushered in, in the wake of the culture of positivism that set in during this period.

COURSE 9: BRITISH ROMANTIC LITERATURE
(CORE)
CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: The literature of the Romantic period is considered to be the most affective in terms of the ways in which it was able to connect with people across class lines. Product of the revolutionary zeal precipitated by two great revolutions – the French Revolution and the American War of Independence – the highly imaginative, rhetorical, emotive, visionary, metaphysical, epical, sensuous aspects of the works, especially poetry, gave tremendous heft to this literature celebrating Nature in all its beauty, majesty and terror. The Gothic Novel became a dominant genre, which attempted to debunk the structure of rationality by emphasising on the reality of the supernatural.

COURSE 10: BRITISH LITERATURE: 19TH CENTURY
(CORE)
CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: The nineteenth-century is emblematic of a certain spiritual crisis that had set in due to the powerful impact of scientific ideology. Utilitarian values exhorting personal aggrandisement at the cost of social responsibility became the practice of daily lives of the people. Such an attitude finds ample illustration in the works of the nineteenth-century novelists and poets. This period, especially after 1837 is termed as ‘Victorian’ literature – a term that evokes notions of propriety, prudishness, censorship, among others, that was in sharp relief against the spirit of the erstwhile Romantic period. The period is also marked by ground-breaking theories propounded by Darwin, Marx and Freud, which impacted the thought processes of the people to such a remarkable extent that its effects are felt up to the present. Therefore, a reading of nineteenth-century English literature provides a fascinating opportunity to immerse oneself into the fraught historical context determined by contradictory, oppositional drives and processes.

FIFTH SEMESTER

COURSE CODE: 50100

COURSE 11: WOMEN'S WRITING (CORE)

CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Unarguably the truest fact about human society is domination of women by men. Patriarchy believes in the superiority of man over women in all walks of life. Therefore, women were denied agency to air their views publicly or in writings. The fact that women had to resort to male pseudonyms in order to find readership is merely one instance to prove how patriarchal ideology has a stranglehold over the society at large. Since women have been systematically silenced by 'phallogocentric' ideology, they find it rather difficult to articulate their views. Privileging women's writing is a way by means of which the thought, anxieties, fears, desires, emotions of the 'second sex' can be addressed. The objective of this course is to introduce learners to women's writing, and in doing so attempting to underline the manner in which power operates to silence women from articulating their views. Apart from that, the course would also try to situate women's writing in a space that transcends or upends the male writing tradition through various (subversive) ways.

COURSE 12: BRITISH LITERATURE: THE EARLY 20TH CENTURY
(CORE)

CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: The early Twentieth-century British literature was characterised by experimentations on the level of both form and content. The imperialistic World War I impacted the minds of the people across Europe to such an extent that they began to suffer from various neurotic symptoms. Capitalism with its dehumanized processes and practices produced alienated, disenfranchised subjects, triggering a philosophical shift that was encapsulated in symbolism, existentialism, cubism, Dadaism, expressionism, and nihilism. These philosophies found ample space in Modernism in Literature, and this particular course attempts to chart these philosophical trajectories through early twentieth-century texts, particularly novels and poetry.

COURSE 13: MODERN EUROPEAN DRAMA (CORE)

CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: The twentieth century marked the revival of drama after it was forced to shut down during the Puritan Interregnum. Even though the revival started during the Restoration Period, it subsequently lost ground during the Romantic and the Victorian Period. It was with the onset of the twentieth-century that drama made a magnificent return. It was in Europe, particularly the plays of the Norwegian playwright Henrik Ibsen, the German playwright Bertolt Brecht and French playwright Samuel Beckett that drama became an important vehicle for representing the political, social, individual, economic conditions the post-war Europe, with all its attendant ills and trauma. This course intends to read the plays by placing the epochal events of the period as the backdrop.

COURSE 14: POSTCOLONIAL LITERATURES

(CORE)

CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: This course introduces postcolonial literature to the learners. The importance of postcolonial studies in a globalised world in which more than three-quarters of the people living in the world today have had their lives shaped by the experience of colonialism, cannot be overestimated. The main focus in the course is on literary texts and literary analysis. The literary works chosen are English language texts from the erstwhile colonized countries including the countries subsumed under the rubric "the Commonwealth." In this course we will deploy postcolonial theory to engage critically with texts within a postcolonial framework. We will focus on such issues as language, identity, point of view, displacement, physical and mental colonisation, Decolonisation, nationalism, fundamentalism, globalisation and diaspora, colonial legacy, gender and sexuality, regionalism, ethnicity, genocide, race, and so forth, and we will discuss how such issues are expressed in the literary texts. When taking into account the individual work's socio-historical context, however, it will become apparent that it may not be relevant to discuss all the issues mentioned in each separate work.

COURSE CODE: 50110

DSE 1: MODERN INDIAN WRITING IN ENGLISH TRANSLATION

CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Salman Rushdie had stirred the hornet's nest by claiming that Writings in English from India were infinitely superior to that of 'vernacular' literatures existing in all regional Indian languages. This notion was vehemently opposed by many writers and intellectuals, with the likes of Amit Chaudhuri writing sustained critique against Rushdie's position. A cursory reading of translated works of Indian writing across regions would prove how significant has been the contributions of authors writings in the various regional languages. Since, reading these works in the original is most often not possible due to linguistic variations, English translation of immortal works of modern Indian writing would perhaps go a long way in understanding and appreciating the best in regional literature. This course aims to acquaint learners with the works of Indian writers working on regional literature from the north to the south, from the west to the east.

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Generally, diasporic literature deals with alienation, displacement, existential rootlessness, nostalgia, quest for identity, hybridity and so forth. Indian diaspora writers have contributed immensely to literature, especially those writing in English. Salman Rushdie, Amitav Ghosh, Vikram Seth, Jhumpa Lahiri, Rohinton Mistry, V.S. Naipaul etc. are luminaries in the field of fiction and their works have earned both critical acclaim and commercial success. The objective of this course is to introduce learners to literature of the Indian diaspora keeping in view the issues that haunt the writers who have settled abroad, despite being Indians in terms of roots and emotional make-up.

It is hoped that learners will be in a position to understand the texts in terms of the contexts, which could be purely aesthetic, historical, textual or political. They will be able to read texts by adopting the ideologies of the different reading processes.

DSE 7: PARTITION LITERATURE
CREDITS ASSIGNED: 6 CREDITS

COURSE OBJECTIVES: The Partition was perhaps the most horrific event of the twentieth-century subcontinent's history. Thousands of innocent people across the divided nation (India and Pakistan) lost their lives, millions lost their homes, and migrations of unimaginable magnitude took place. It is important to understand the backgrounds and reason for the partition, but also to consider its effects on the lives of the people involved. The historical accounts may not be enough; imaginative literature helps fill in the gaps in understanding the emotional impact of these events on people's lives. So, the objective of this course is to read literature that captures the sense of the times. There will also be film screenings since cinema also helps capture both the horror and the repercussions of these events.
