ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of English at Golaghat Commerce College (Autonomous) has its roots in the inception of the college itself, established in 1972. Initially one of the ten departments that the college was founded with, the department's focus was primarily on imparting rudimentary communication skills and commercial correspondence, with limited emphasis on literary studies, as the college was initially centred around the Commerce stream. However, the opening of the Arts stream in 1989 marked a turning point for the department, broadening its scope and introducing literary studies into its curriculum.

The Department of English began to acquire a new dimension when major courses in English literature were introduced in 2004. Since then, the department has steadily evolved and grown, gaining significant importance in the academic structure of the college. Until 2024, the department followed the syllabus prescribed by Dibrugarh University. However, with the college gaining autonomous status in 2024, the department now follows a syllabus developed by the Board of Studies (BOS) in English. The present FYUGP English syllabus is effective from the academic session, 2024-25.

INTRODUCTION

The FYUGP English programme at Golaghat Commerce College (Autonomous) is designed in alignment with the Curricular and Credit Framework for Undergraduate Programmes (CCFUP) as recommended by the UGC and guided by the National Education Policy (NEP), 2020. It offers a flexible and well-rounded curriculum that balances academic rigour with practical skill development. The programme comprises a diverse mix of Major, Minor, Generic Elective, Skill Enhancement, and Ability Enhancement courses. These courses are structured to promote depth in literary studies and encourage interdisciplinary exploration. Students will be able to examine literature as a dynamic cultural form that interacts with socio-political realities, identities, and transnational experiences. By the end of the programme, students will have acquired a nuanced understanding of how literature both shapes and is shaped by society. Students will also gain exposure to theoretical frameworks, research methodologies relevant to literary studies and will be equipped with tools required to formulate research questions, engage in academic writing, and produce research papers. In addition to this, students will gain exposure to areas such as communication skills, creative writing and translation studies.

In line with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, the programme supports flexible learning paths, including multiple exit and re-entry options. In the later semesters, students are encouraged to take up internship which will help them apply what they have learned to real-world situations. By the end of the programme, students are expected to have developed a sound understanding of English studies, along with the skills and confidence to pursue further studies, research, or a range of careers that value language proficiency, critical thinking, and creativity.

OBJECTIVES

The FYUGP English Programme at Golaghat Commerce College (Autonomous) is designed to:

1. Provide students with a solid understanding of the literary, historical, cultural, and social contexts that shape English literature across different periods and regions.
2. Introduce learners to a wide range of literary texts, including British, Indian, and World Literature in English, as well as translated works.
3. Encourage critical engagement with texts, enabling students to analyse and interpret literature through multiple lenses such as gender, race, class, caste, ability and nation.
4. Build the capacity for independent and informed thought by developing students' ability to assess, debate, and reflect on literary and cultural issues.
5. Strengthen students' soft skills, including communication, leadership, teamwork, and problem-solving, to prepare them for academic, professional, and civic roles.

PROGRAMME SPECIFIC OUTCOMES

PO1. Gain comprehensive knowledge of English literature and language, along with an understanding of their relevance and intersections with other fields of study.

PO2. Analyse, interpret, and critically engage with texts across genres, periods, and cultures, using a variety of literary theories and critical frameworks.

PO3. Develop an informed appreciation of the historical development, thematic diversity, and formal aspects of British, American, Indian, and World literatures in English.

PO4. Cultivate a critical awareness of contemporary trends and evolving perspectives in the field of literature.

PO5. Develop essential research skills and methodological approaches necessary for independent literary study, along with the ability to produce well-structured research papers.

PO6. Acquire transferable skills in effective communication, creative writing, and translation that can be effectively applied in academic and professional contexts.

PO7. Enhance creative and analytical thinking, collaborative learning, and problem-solving abilities through structured soft skills training.
